Description of the Course

This course is the third part of the Latin American History survey, covering the period from 1910 (the beginning of the Mexican Revolution) to the present. It pays particular attention to the political and social transformations that have affected the development of the region throughout the 20th century (revolutions, military dictatorships, social movements, democratic consolidation). Although this course gives special attention to a few countries (Mexico, Cuba, Brazil, Chile, Nicaragua, and Peru), it does so while keeping a regional and comparative perspective. By the end of the term students will have a more sophisticated understanding of the historical roots behind both the challenges and promises that Latin American countries confront today.

Course policies

1. Students are expected to attend lectures consistently. A passing grade will be difficult to achieve without regular attendance. Students must also consistently read the assigned materials.
2. The course instructor and GTFs will hold regular office hours every week. Students are encouraged to visit them to discuss pertinent issues or get additional information about the course's themes, policies, and grades.
3. A common form of academic dishonesty, plagiarism, will not be tolerated. Students must become familiar with the University of Oregon rules about this issue. More information will be offered at the appropriate time.
4. An atmosphere of mutual respect, tolerance, and fairness will be enforced by the instructor and GTFs. Students must behave in ways proper to an academic environment - i.e. no talking, eating, chatting, text-messaging, or newspaper reading during lecture. The use of electronic devices is not allowed during class. The only exception will be students who need to bring a laptop computer or tablet to take lecture notes. If you plan to bring one you must seat in the front row and may not engage in internet browsing during class time. Failure to comply with this policy will force the instructor to ban the use of laptop computers and tablets in the classroom.

5. Course incompletes will be granted ONLY in cases of extreme need and ONLY to students that have an acceptable record of class attendance and get at least a C in the mid-term. Students that need an “incomplete” grade must make arrangements with the instructor on or before the last week of classes.

6. No late homework will be accepted, except in cases of health-related and other types of emergency that could be documented.

7. Students that miss one of the quizzes may use the only make-up quiz opportunity that will be offered, which is scheduled for June 4. NO ADDITIONAL OPPORTUNITIES TO MAKE-UP WORK WILL BE OFFERED UNLESS THE STUDENT PRESENTS CONCLUSIVE WRITTEN EVIDENCE OF MEDICAL CONDITIONS.

Evaluations

Course evaluations will include the following:

- Map quiz (10 points)
- 2 quizzes (10 points each, 20 points total)
- Midterm exam (30 points)
- Final exam (40 points)
